1. Families of Soviet officers attached to the Polish Navy in Gdynia received instructions in the middle of June, 1954, to make preparations for returning to the USSR. They have been told to be ready to depart immediately on receipt of the order to leave.
2. Among the families preparing to leave is that of the chief of the Polish naval court who is a Soviet officer.
3. Similar instructions were issued in 1953 but were rescinded a few weeks later.
4. Soviet families are so convinced that this time they will leave that they are handing over their allocation cards for use in service shops to the families of Polish naval officers with whom they are on friendly terms.
